HELPING THE BIRDS

Emma was bored. She sat at the window and watched some birds. The birds were making a nest from grass and straw. They carried it in their beaks to a tree.

“Mom, I’m bored. I don’t know what to do!”

“Help the birds make a nest,” her mother said.

“How can I do that?” asked Emma.

“Go out with your little brother. Take some bits of string and yarn. Hang them from the fence. The birds will find them and put them in the nest.”

Emma did what her mother said. She and her brother hung string and yarn from the fence.

“This string is for your nest,” Emma told the birds. The birds found the string very quickly. They took the string and flew to the tree.

“This is great!” Emma’s brother said.

“Yes! The birds will sleep in a nest we helped them make!” said Emma. “This is nice. I think I will do this again next year.”

“When I grow up, I’m going to make my own nest out of string and yarn,” her brother said.
